Emergency Relief Measure Problem Now Up

Several County Auditors State Cases

(By Associated Press.)
Columbus, Jan. 8.—Public discussion of the proposed financial relief legislation for counties, which is to be the prime function of a special session of the legislature, January 15, was started today before a joint session of the Senate and House standing committees on taxation and the special joint committee on taxation and economy in the House of Representatives. Discussion started this morning with Senator Bolton, of Cleveland, presiding.

Before starting consideration of the emergency relief bill, which has been drawn and which is to be introduced by Representative Baxter, Allen county, a general discussion of the financial condition of various counties was heard.

The auditor of Allen county explained in detail the financial troubles of that county which the proposed bill seeks to remedy. He said that because of present limitations in the tax rates the county was unable to even make a levy for general operating expenses.

Auditor Finley, of Belmont county, one of the 44 counties which are financially embarrassed, because of present unfunded debts, said his county had been running behind since 1916 and that now the county operating fund is over-drawn more than $300,000.

PRESIDENT'S UNCLE

(By Associated Press.)
Boston, January 8.—John Wilder, of Plymouth, Vt., 80 years old and the latest aspirant to fiddling championships, boasts of something more than 66 years of playing and his 100-year-old violin—he is an uncle of President Coolidge.

The rugged old Vermont, who used to play for the future President when the latter was a youth in Plymouth, is here today to fill a theatrical engagement. In addition he plans to compete with any fiddler not younger than 60 years for the old-time championship of New England.

Wilder did not know if his illustrious nephew knew about his plans. "Don't know whether he'll like my playing or not," he conceded to reporters. "He never was much of a hand to bother about his relation's business."

RELIEF PROSPECTS
NOT VERY BRIGHTMIRACLE IS SEEN
TO BE ONLY REMEDYReceipts Show Decrease
From Those Of 1924Expenditures Increase At Same Time

(By Associated Press.)
Columbus, Jan. 8.—Only a miracle can prevent the state's fund for general operating expenses from becoming exhausted soon after the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1, State Treasurer Day said today, in a statement analyzing the state's financial condition.

Under the most favorable calculation the State Treasurer estimates there will be only $2,562,736 in the general fund at the close of business June 1.

"It now appears that unless some miracle happens the general revenue fund of the state of Ohio will be entirely exhausted soon after July 1, the beginning of the next fiscal year," Treasurer Day declared.

In a comparative statement the treasurer shows that receipts for the last half of the fiscal year 1924 were $23,767,791.69 against $22,950,856.81 for the same period in 1925. The disbursements of the last half of 1924 were $14,293,434.96 compared with $16,334,051.63 in 1925. Taking the balance of $9,210,221.17 in the general revenue fund on December 31, 1925, and adding to this the actual receipts of the last half of 1925, which were $7,352,515 as an estimate for 1925, there would be $16,572,736.17 after June 30 this year. The estimated disbursements for the same period, Mr. Day placed at $14,000,000, which were virtually the same as a year ago. The balance in the fund on that date would be $2,562,736.77.

However the treasurer points out that there has been a steady decrease in the receipts and a steady increase in expenditures which probably will be continued in about the same ratio during the next six months. Should this be the case, he said, the balance on June 30 will be much less than his $2,562,736.77 estimated. Mr. Day also pointed out that soon after June 30 several million dollars will have to be transferred to the road and school fund. Where the money to make these transfers will come from he conceded he does not know.

TEMPERANCE WORKER
DROPS FROM W.C.T.U.Opposed To Present Law
On Prohibition

(By Associated Press.)
Haddonfield, N. J., January 8.—Mrs. Bertha Shippen Irving, dropped yesterday from membership in the Camden county branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, in a statement today reiterated her opposition to the present prohibition law.

"Prohibition is only a method of acquiring temperance in this country," she said. "The terms are not synonymous. If there are safer methods of improving conditions we must accept them. All who work for temperance work for the good of future generations. Every bootlegger, however, works and votes for prohibition. Compulsory measures have not been demonstrated to be effective. You cannot legislate to make a people good and no law can be enforced which has not the vast majority of the people back of it. Education is the most effective method of developing temperance."

ECONOMIC
ACID TEST
FOR RELIEFSenator Capper Of Kansas
Fixes The "Acid Test"Proposals Must Measure
Up To Real StandardOrderly Disposition Of Surplus
The Only Remedy

BL DAVID LAWRENCE
(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)
Washington, Jan. 8.—Economic soundness is the acid test which all proposals for agricultural relief must meet in the opinion of Senator Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Agricultural group in the United States Senate.

"Orderly disposition of surplus farm commodities," he said in an exclusive interview today, "is beyond question the pre-eminent agricultural problem before Congress. Primarily a farm concern, its potentialities are such that it becomes distinctly a national problem, and as such it should be appraised and the broadest national interest invoked in its solution. Prosperity can not indefinitely continue sectional, and until the farmer is relieved of the handicap forced upon him by reason of the fact that he must sell in an export market and buy in an import market is removed, not only must his dependable prosperity be postponed, but his continued existence is gravely menaced."

"Many bills have been introduced and others will be offered. Personally, I do not think any of the proposals thus far suggested are entirely adequate to the situation, nor do they all, perhaps, meet the test of economic soundness. This test must be met, if we propose really to solve the problem. Any proposal that falls short of economic soundness falls far short of offering a solution. However, I am confident that a sound solution will be evolved from the suggestions now offered and others that will immediately be offered for the consideration of the House and Senate Agricultural committees and from ideas offered and canvassed in committee hearings."

"Agricultural conditions, generally, are somewhat better than those prevailing two or three years ago. Yet despite the improvement, the farmers' financial reward is not nearly what it should be. The farm industry needs more vigorous championship of its just rights. It needs more team work among farmers and far morganizations to obtain these rights."

"Agriculture has made some progress the last two years toward higher financial returns, but has a long way to go before these returns are adequate or will reach a satisfactory basis."

Much is lost to the grower, no doubt, through the difficulty of applying modern selling methods to farm products. I am confident farmers will never obtain a just and adequate financial return until there has been a

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, Jan. 8.—The "staff of life" has been changed from wheat to corn in the grain belt.

The golden corn, one of America's contributions to the world's food supply, is going on tables in every conceivable form—corn "pone," corn meal mush, corn fritters, corn syrup and even corn sugar.

Faced with a crop surplus, farm leaders hope in this way to turn the gold of the corn into the gold of dividends, or at least to provide a means of working off excess supplies.

Corn days and corn meetings are planned throughout the Central West with one of the first scheduled at Morris, Ill., Saturday. A feature of the Morris affair will be a free corn dinner, running the gastronomic scale from corn fed beef, corn gravy, succotash, corn bread, and corn syrup down to coffee sweetened with corn sugar.

While plans are on foot literally to eat up the corn surplus, the International Harvester Company has announced a program involving corn that goes back to the most primitive means of commercial trading—barter.

The concern will trade implements to farmers for corn. The basis is $1 a bushel for No. 2 corn at Chicago, a price which the company believes will be reached before July. If corn goes above $1 a bushel before the farmer is called on to deliver his corn he can sell it elsewhere and settle for his implements in the regular way.

ALUMINUM CO. PROBE

In Investigated Firm

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 8.—With Attorney General Sargent as the first witness, the Senate Judiciary committee today began inquiry into the failure of the Department of Justice to bring contempt proceedings against the Aluminum Company of America in which Secretary Mellon is a large stockholder.

At the outset Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, read from a letter written by the then Attorney General, Harlan Stone, to the Trade Commission in which it was held that the Aluminum Company had violated provisions of the consent decree of 1922. Among other things this decree forbade the shipment of defective material to competitors.

Letters from agents of the company and from competitors charging shipment of defective material then were read into the record. The Attorney General said the Trade Committee's report was only down to 1922 and that it was necessary to make further inquiry because of statute limitations.

WORLD COURT ISSUE
MAY MEAN WATERLOOBorah, New Leader, Has
Back To WallDEATH PLAYS HAVOC
WITH OLD "BATTALION"Late Senator Brandegee
Their Gilbrater

BY ROBERT T. SMALL

(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)
Washington, Jan. 8.—The old "Battalion of Death" is floundering to its ultimate fall. Senator Borah, new leader of the band, is fighting with his back to the wall, but it looks very much as if he is to be defeated in his first great struggle as chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations.

In other words American adherence to the World Court can be prevented or postponed only by the most desperate efforts and by taking advantage of every one of the Senate rules which Vice President Dawes so strenuously sought to amend during his speaking tour of the past summer and fall. All Mr. Dawes can do now that the Senate is meeting again is to grin and bear it.

Death has taken a tremendous toll of the "Battalion of Death" since its successful fight against American entrance into the League of Nations and against ratification of the Treaty of Versailles.

The surviving members of the band will tell you today that the man they miss the most in their present struggle is not Henry Cabot Lodge, of the famed New England Cabots, nor Medill McCormick of the Chicago reaper family.

Both of these were stalwarts among the irreconcilables. Mr. Lodge was the titular leader of the group, but not the real power. Medill McCormick was resourceful, restless in his energy and had a biting tongue.

But the man who is missed was the old wheel-horse of the internal phalanx—Frank Brandegee, of Connecticut, who was found dead in his home here a little more than a year ago with a gas tube in his mouth. The suicide of Frank Brandegee gave the United States Senate one of the greatest shocks it has ever had. It robbed the irreconcilable group of its rock of Gibraltar.

Frank Brandegee was uncompromising. He was always an inspiration to his fellow members or his fellow conspirators, as you may wish to call them. Cabot Lodge might show signs of wavering—in fact he did on several occasions—but the irreconcilables always knew they could fly to Frank Brandegee and find solace and comfort and renewed assurance as to the future fight.

Senator Borah at the moment is the leading irreconcilable, the leading survivor of the battalion of death, but more and more it is being borne in upon the Senate and the Senators that Mr. Borah is not a leader. He is not a rallier. He is a brilliant, splendidly equipped individual soldier in the Death Battalion, but he has not the knack of keeping his followers together.

As a matter of fact Mr. Borah never has cared much about followers. He has been a sort of lone wolf in the Senate, fighting in his own way and keeping almost wholly to his own advice. Mr. Borah went along with Mr. Lodge in the League of Nations fight, but he was ever critical of the tactics of his leader and never gave him credit for winning the fight.

Boston, Jan. 8.—Dr. James A. Bay, a pioneer in the use of the X-ray in New England, is fighting for his life, a martyr to science. Continual exposure of his hands to the same rays which, in moderation have brought relief to hundreds of patients, has led to the amputation of his right arm at the elbow and three fingers of his left hand.

While science has learned the value of moderate use of the ray, it has as yet been unable to discover a cure for over-exposure and but slight hope is held out for Dr. Bay's recovery. Infection which set in six years ago from X-ray burns is still spreading despite a series of six operations.

The entire population fled into the open. The towns suffered mostly were Abbadia and San Salvatore, the center of the mercury mining district, where three persons were badly injured and all houses damaged. The first shock was felt at 10:15 a. m. After a lull the movement began again but with lessened intensity.

Columbus, O., January 8.—Padlocking of a four-story, 70-room Columbus hotel and two Columbus restaurants is sought by the Federal Government in a petition filed this afternoon before Judge Benson Hough alleging violation of the Federal prohibition laws.

In one petition padlocking of every hotel room and business room in the Farmers' hotel building is sought. Another petition seeks the padlocking of building while the third endeavors to a specific restaurant room in the hotel procure a padlock for another restaurant in another part of the city. (By Associated Press.)
Houlton, Me., Jan. 9.—Aroostook county potato farmers are talking in terms of millions today for the first time in five years. If the central market price of $6.50 a bushel holds, the value of last year's crop of 12,570,000 bushels from the world's "potato center" will exceed $80,000,000. The Aroostook farmer will not get rich but will pay a good part of his fertilizer and bank indebtedness.

JUDGE URGES CHANGE MADE

WANTS MANY CASES GIVEN TO PROBATE COURT.

(Special to The Herald)

Hillsboro, O., January 8.—Delivering his charge to the Grand Jury here Thursday, Judge N. Craig McBride suggested changes in the manner of disposing of certain cases of minor importance by having the cases handled in the Probate Court, as a matter of expediency and economy.

Judge McBride classified criminal matters into two divisions, felonies and misdemeanors.

Felonies may be distinguished, the Judge stated, by the penalty, carrying, as they do fine and imprisonment in some Ohio penal institution, either the penitentiary or the state reformatory.

The legislature, Judge McBride said originally contemplated that the Grand Jury should investigate only felonies. The misdemeanors properly should be heard before a court of concurrent jurisdiction, which in Highland county, is the Probate Court.

WRITES THANKS FROM VENICE

People who suffered from serious diseases that started with a simple cough or cold realize the importance of checking them right at the start. W. H. Gray, Venice, California, writes, "Foley's Honey and Tar is wonderful for attacks of coughs and colds." Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gives quick relief from coughs and colds. Buy a bottle today and keep it on hand for the slightest emergency. Satisfaction guaranteed. Blackmer and Tanquary.—Adv.

Under the present system in Highland county, an alleged misdemeanor is handled by three bodies. As a general rule, at least two. A preliminary hearing is first had before an examining magistrate, a Mayor or Justice of the peace. The suspect is bound over to the Grand Jury and if indicted, his case is heard before the Common Pleas Court.

In all cases of misdemeanors, the Judge declared, the Probate Court has concurrent jurisdiction, and if the Prosecuting Attorney will file an "information" in the court, it can be heard without the expense and the delay involved in a Grand Jury investigation. In the Probate Court a jury is not provided unless demanded.

In the event the accused enters a plea of guilty the saving in court costs to the county is very material.

The court stated that he proposed to give the substance of this information to all future Grand Juries with the hope that they would take steps to work out the economies possible under the system of handling criminal cases as outlined.

HOW ABOUT JAZZ

Musical Authorities Hold
Different Views

LUDICROUS, SAYS ONE

Deserves Consideration,
Thinks Another

Dayton, O., Jan. 8.—What about Jazz as an American national music? Musical authority No. 1—"It deserves the serious consideration of every thinking pedagogue."

Musical authority No. 2—"The idea seems to be ludicrous."

The argument became heated at the annual convention of the National Association of Music Teachers here, attended by a great many acknowledged musical leaders and authorities of the country.

Edward J. Stringham, dean of the Denver College of Music, recommended the study of jazz to every "progressive" teacher.

"There is a great deal of good in this form of musical expression," he contended. "It deserves serious consideration of every thinking pedagogue."

However, he said, there are two kinds of jazz—the good and the bad and the latter, he believes, will die of its own accord.

"Jazz as played by Paul Whiteman is the only distinctive contribution America has given to the development of the art of music."

Instead of being an imitative nation, we are to become a leader. And that leadership is to come from the inherent characteristics of jazz idioms. Already jazz is being played in most foreign nations and not a few serious composers in other lands are utilizing jazz idioms to advantage in their composition.

But here are the views of Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., on the same question:

"The idea of a national school based on jazz technique seems to be ludicrous."

"No one doubts that jazz has had, is having and will have for some time to come an effect on American music. The interesting elements, certain rhythmic and orchestral devices especially are being absorbed, and when these elements have been assimilated jazz will cease being a fashion, the 'new art form,' and will go back—or forward—to its old position of being first rate dance music."

As for jazz being in itself an art form, this is possible if we understand that it is limited to a very narrow range of expression."

Ins and Outs of Politics Has Ring of Ancient Days Despite Newfangled Colors

Big Business "Sets Pretty"
Regardless of Results

BOSSES STILL BOSSES

Henry Ford Proposes Nice
Manufacturing Utopia

BY ROBERT T. SMALL

(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)

New York, Jan. 8.—The Careful observer can learn much of politics in these days and times. Perhaps it is a new scheme of political economy and yet it has a ring of ancient days about it after all.

In the recent Mayorality election here in New York city it developed that certain persons more or less connected with the corporation interests had contributed liberally to the Democratic campaign fund. It further developed that these same persons had contributed liberally to the Republican campaign fund.

There you have a real secret of modern big business—always playing safe, never overlooking anything and wanting always to be on the winning side no matter which way the cat jumps.

BOSSES STILL BOSS IN CRUEST
OF WAYS

But that is not all one learns if one keeps one's ear to the ground or one's eye on the ball. There has been a hullabaloo over in Brooklyn these past few days. The air has been surcharged with accusations. One political boss has accused another political boss of breaking a "gentleman's agreement." Therefore the accused boss no longer is a gentleman. The accuser still arrogates to himself the title.

This is how the two bosses fell out: The Democratic sheriff of Brooklyn needed some deputies. He wanted twelve. He could not get this additional help without action of the legislature. The legislature is controlled by the Republicans. So the Republican boss was called. The situation was explained.

"All right," he said, "if you give me six of the appointments you can have the help."

It was agreed. The twelve deputies were authorized. Six were democrats and six republicans. Then along came a new election and a new Democratic Sheriff. Out went the six Republican Deputies, six good democrats and true taking their place. Hence the loud Macedonian cry from the Republicans.

The Democrats admit the gentleman's agreement, but they say it never was intended to last forever. An intervening election wiped it out. But the average citizen can see how things are arranged in the political life which swirls about him.

FORD PROPOSES MAUFACTURING
UTOPIA

New York manufacturing interests say they are interested but not alarmed by Henry Ford's latest proposals that all big manufacturing plants should be located in the country where they could cooperate with farming and where workmen with large families could bring their children in healthful surroundings.

Manhattan Island fast is becoming a vast workshop. Some of its industrial plants are enormous. Others are very small. Its workers in large part live in the crowded tenements of the East and West sides. Often there are seven or more persons housed in a single room.

What it would mean to people to get out into the country and live under proper housing conditions can easily be imagined. But the manufacturers say the problem is too great even to be thought of at this time. The

Some extent of the work may be realized when it is known that in Fayette township alone—tracing of which was completed Friday—82 realty changes took place in the past year, so that 82 new names will sup-

The work of making the tracings has been most artistically done, showing marked skill on the part of Deputy Davis.

PILOTS SET NEW TEAM RECORD WITH 1004 WHEN THEY TAKE 3 GAMES FROM RED BIRDS

HON. JAY G. WILLIAMS HIGH IN INDIVIDUAL SCORER.

The Pilots defeated the Red Birds in all three games of their bowling set on the "Y" alleys, Thursday night, rolling up the record score of 1004 in the first game.

This is the first time in the history of the alleys, a 1000 score has been rolled in a league game. Jay G. Williams was high for this game with 237 while Maynard, the low man hit 180. Campbell was also two pins over the double century mark.

The Pilots' other scores were 833 and 783 for a grand total of 2620. Campbell was the only Pilot whose total score was under 500, Williams leading with 572.

The most of the Red Birds' games were only ordinary, the only time they went over 800 being in the second game when they hit 808. Farquhar rolled 182 in the first game for their high single score, while Galliett dropped 181 pins in the second setto.

IRRECONCILIABLES OF SENATE FLOUNDERING

ful battalion has not been for a year or more the fighting Johnson of the olden days. Like Borah he is more of an individual fighter than a leader. He it at his best as a free lance.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, has virtually deserted the old phalanx. The same is true of Senator Wadsworth, of New York, if the latter ever could be regarded as one of the "originals."

So it is dawning upon the Senate at last that the real leader of the Battalion of Death was Frank Brandagee, who was not so spectacular as one of the others, but was always unbending and always sincere, and always convinced that he was right.

Like Brandagee himself the old battalion soon will be but a memory.

BLIZZARD STRIKES HOME

Coughs and colds are a natural sequence to an unexpected blizzard, and should be treated promptly to offset complications. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a pleasant and effective remedy for coughs and colds. Keep a bottle on hand for any emergency. "The children and I had colds and the first dose of Foley's Honey and Tar helped us right away," writes Mrs. Mather, Richwood, Ohio. Foley's Honey and Tar is a good cough remedy for the whole family. Resinol stopped itching quickly and healed blisters

Salem, Va., Feb. 5.—"I am writing to tell you of the wonderful benefit Resinol has been to my baby who had a bad case of eczema. The skin on her face and back was very red at first, and in a few days broke out in little blisters. The itching was awful and made the child very cross. I tried one preparation that had been highly recommended, but it did her no good. Then I bought a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap and the itching stopped after the first treatment. In a few days the red look was gone and in a very short time the cure was complete. I shall always keep Resinol in my home!" (Signed) Mrs. L. J. Carter, 165 Union St.

ECONOMIC SOUNDNESS ACID TEST FOR RELIEF

general acceptance of co-operative marketing.

"The substantial program made by commodity sales organizations the last four years in marketing fruit, tobacco, cotton and wheat is encouraging. But a system must be worked out in which our farm organizations will have a large part—to move our crop surpluses when they occur, into foreign channels, and sell them in a way to avoid having the surplus set the price for the entire yield.

"The Government must help solve this problem of the surplus, which has afflicted producers since before Joseph's time. It is the most serious question affecting the producer in America today, because it obliges him to sell on the basis of world market prices and to buy at American price levels.

"Agriculture must be more vigorous in upholding its just rights; more active in public affairs, as labor and capital have been, if the industry is to obtain its due and adequate reward.

"Such aggressive action is especially important at this time, for it seems to me that the country is definitely entering upon a new economic era, in which conditions so far as cities go, will certainly be more prosperous than they have been the last five years. Farmers must see to it, if they are to get their fair share of this prosperity.

"Certainly the one market for farm products will improve, for it can be taken as an axiom that when city people have money they are ample consumers of food of good quality.

"On the other hand, the long range trend of Europe's markets is downward. This means a constantly larger proportion of American farm products must be sold at home. Naturally producers will be compelled to study their local markets with greater care than they have ever given them before, if they are to realize fair returns.

"Our farmers must awaken to the broad economic and political aspects of the complicated problems involved in the relationship between city and country. Greater business ability and real statesmanship are needed by the agricultural industry than in former years, if farmers are to find a solution of the problem they will have to face during the next five year and later."

We Seem to Be Started

The city administration has taken some of the necessary preliminary action, looking to the construction of a sanitary sewer system in Washington C. H., and we seem now to be started upon the way to securing what this community and other communities and residents along Paint creek, below this city, have long needed.

That's the way it seems now. Thus far thus good.

We have permitted ourselves, several times before this, to become enthused over the prospect that our needs were to be provided for only to be bitterly disappointed, when city and state officials went to sleep on the job and permitted the whole enterprise to lapse, that we are not going to become enthusiastic now.

We have complimented the present city administration frequently upon its progressive policy and action. Those compliments were all deserved. It has been and is a good administration. We hope it will prove big enough to go on through with the sanitary sewer project, now that it has started, but we are not going to count on it until it is done. We believe it will, but we are not going to enthuse over it. Too many disappointments have made us a bit skeptical.

As we are given to understand it, the proposal as to whether the cost of the sanitary sewer shall be outside of the tax levy limit or within that limit will be submitted to the voters. That's, as we understand it, is the sole question to be voted upon. The question as to whether we shall build a sanitary sewer has already been passed upon by the state authorities and we have been ordered to build it. The question to be voted upon is how we shall pay for it.

The present city administration has done much deserving of commendation, but the building of a proper sanitary sewer would be the crowning achievement for a city administration, that has been really good.

We hope to be able to add that compliment to the many given and the many others deserved.

Aluminum Prices

We have been hearing a great deal during the last two years about an aluminum trust and the resulting high prices consumers are being compelled to pay for anything in which aluminum is used.

All of that talk has attracted a considerable interest. Most households, nowadays, are wholly or partially equipped with aluminum kitchen utensils. Aluminum utensils are the best, the most lasting, the cleanest, brightest looking and satisfactory, in every way, of any ever used in the kitchen (that sounds like an advertisement for aluminum ware but it isn't).

The kitchen being a most important part of every household and the queen of the kitchen being about the most important person in every well regulated home it is easily understood why the discussion about aluminum prices aroused so much interest.

It may be too, that because Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is the reputed head and controlling power of the aluminum wear manufacturers, an extra amount of interest was manifested by the public.

Anyway, the cost of aluminum has been talked about so much that a congressional probe was suggested. Coincident with that turn of affairs the price of aluminum dropped five percent.

Now it develops that, after all, our households are not the biggest consumers of aluminum. The automobiles—those newcomers in our affairs—consume fifty percent of all the aluminum produced and that the demand in that quarter is increasing. Consequently the households are not to benefit by the five percent reduction on raw aluminum as the demand for sheet will keep up the consumers' prices.

It will be very difficult if not entirely impossible to so frame any sensational probe or any legislative enactment as to force down the price of aluminum in the face of a feverish demand by the largest consumers of aluminum—the automobile manufacturers.

Thus again does the automobile enter into our family budget of expenses and not to the well being of the budget either.

EASTERN SECTION LAUNDRIES ARE HAVING BIGGEST RUSH OF HISTORY

Use Of Soft Coal Is The Cause For The Rush

Demand For Laundry Machinery Unprecedented

Hard Finished Collars Are Coming Into Vogue

BY J. C. ROYLE
(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1929)

New York, Jan. 8.—Laundries throughout the Eastern section of the country are busier than ever before. So impressive has the volume of business become that laundry companies are becoming the bases of big mergers all over the country. Many business men consider that consolidations mark periods of fine profits rather than periods of depression.

The added business in the middle Atlantic and New England states is unhesitatingly attributed to the anthracite strike. The use of soft coal has made a perceptible difference in the cleanliness of cities in this section and has burdened the air with dust and soot. Fuel engineers say that this condition is not so much the fault of the soft coal as of improper stoking by persons not familiar with bituminous fuel.

Cleaning and dyeing establishments have felt the effect of the coal strike to unequal with laundries. While the miners and operators have been pointing out the fault of the coal as of improper stoking by persons not familiar with bituminous fuel.

POETRY FOR TODAY

TRAVELER
I have journeyed far
In the year just done,
Oh, the seas we travel,
And the roads we run!

I have seen winter,
And I have seen spring,
Oh, the white winding river,
And a bluebird's wing!

I have heard an angel
And a demon tell
Oh, much about heaven,
And some about hell!

I have brushed wings
With a flying star,
Oh, the dream-world drifting,
Where the wide wings are.

I have seen Egypt,
And I have seen Spain,
Oh, moon above the desert,
And bright gray rain!

I have sailed the Hoang,
And the China sea,
Oh, rice cakes, and almond cakes,
And amber tea!

I have loved a lover
In the Vale of Kashmir,
Oh, golden rose and nightingale,
And one white tear!

But all is not said,
And only half is done,
Oh, the snow and the cedar boughs,
On Lebanon!

(New York Times.)

DID YOU KNOW

The soil of China is extremely fertile, but too porous for successful irrigation, and the crops as a result, depend entirely upon favorable rainfall.

Forset fires increased to an alarming extent in 1924, by reason of careless campers. During 1924 the number of forest fires reached 93,000, and swept 20,000,000 acres of timberland.

ling fingers at each other's dirty linen at the Union League Club where joint conferences are taking place, dry cleaners have been putting off customers with rush jobs, unable at times to handle the volume of business presented.

Other lines have been stimulated. The sale of stiff collars has increased according to haberdashers. They say the impetus given this demand is traceable to the idea that the smooth, starched surface will probably shed dust and soot longer than the softer textured neckwear.

Sales of electric washing machines have been heavier in the last three months than ever in history. The same holds true of ironing machines, operated by electricity or gas, electric irons, and centrifugal driers. The Savage Arms Co., for example, which made large profits on arms and ammunition during the war, and suffered a depression during the post-war slump, now has made electric washing machines one of the chief products and derives no little share of its profits from their sale.

Soap consumption has increased enormously in the last six months all over the country, as well as in the anthracite using regions. Representatives of one of the largest manufacturers of soap and soap powders in the country, declared today this was a reflection of growing culture and higher standards of living as well as of more coal dust and smoke.

It also shows, he said, the tendency of the population to move from the country to the cities and to concentrate about large centers. He explained that he did not mean to cast the slightest reflection on the standards of cleanliness of the rural population but that city dwelling had lessened the use of home made soap, which has been popular many years in the country districts.

The increased use of soap has had a beneficial effect on the pocketbooks of those who bought it as well as on their skins. Larger consumption has permitted lower prices despite the increased costs of raw materials, through savings effected by quantity production.

One large manufacturer of soap has recently broadened its field of activity by the absorption of large factories devoted to production of shoe cleaning fluids and polishes. This corporation figures that the consolidation will permit a saving of $700,000 a year. The scope of the business can be judged from the fact that expenditures for advertising and sales of the combined businesses now amount to $7,000 a day.

RABBIT RANCHING
A great many farmers and orchardists look upon themselves, with more than a little complaint, as involuntary rabbit ranchers. And it is most provoking to find a rabbit colony eating your fodder stacks hollow inside, or chewing fatal rings in the bark of young apple trees. Shooting has little effect on their numbers, and throwing one's property open to strange hunters is sometimes a very doubtful benefit. Hawks and owls help a good deal; but the rabbits still persist.

In New Zealand they have learned to change a curse into a blessing. Those far southern islands have found the introduced rabbits as great a pest as they were in their neighboring commonwealths in Australia, and for along time the farmers and ranchers struggled vainly against their swarming increase. Then some bright individual discovered the American fur market. With the growing scarcity of genuine highgrade furs, rabbit pelts have been passing through the magic metamorphosis of the dye vat in ever-increasing numbers, and the local skin supply nowhere near satisfied the demand.

New Zealanders therefore have first taken to trapping out their surplus rabbits, and then to large-scale rabbit ranching as a regular means of livelihood. Last year, according to a recent dispatch, over eighteen million rabbit skins were imported into this country and England from New Zealand, representing, a total value of about $4,000,000. It begins to look as though the problem of the rabbit pest in the Antipodes were in a fair way to solving itself.

SAGACIOUS DOG OBEYED THE LAW

A large dog, trotting down the streets, following the usual line of traffic about homes (careful to give the right-of-way to cars approaching from the right) was noticed in the business section of the city, Friday morning.

Trotting along in Market street the dog went around the traffic dome on the proper side and headed down Main street, going around the traffic dome at Main and Court and thence east in Court street, presumably to circle the dome at Fayette and Court.

Apparently the dog was perfectly aware of the line of traffic, and it is presumed that he has been accustomed to following his owner about in a machine.

Of outstanding interest in Jeffersonville, circles, both patriotically and socially, was the organization of the William Horney chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Mrs. James Watkins, in Jeffersonville, Thursday.

The State Regent, Mrs. Lowell S. Hobart, of Cincinnati, and the Organizing Regent, Mrs. Edyth Whitaker, of London, effected the organization, with twenty-five organization members and the following officers—Vice Regent, Mrs. Rachael Threlkeld, Recording Secy., Mrs. Grace Wilson, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Lora Smith, Treasurer, Mrs. Sadie Brock, Registrar, Mrs. Jean Creamer, Historian, Miss Isoline Allen, Custodian, Mrs. Jane Klenour, Members of the Council, Mrs. Altha Little, Mrs. Elsie Blessing and Mrs. Della Williams. The additional members of the chapter are—Mrs. Mary Jones, Mrs. Lucy McKillip, Mrs. James Watkins, Mrs. Myrtle Brock, Mrs. Marie Ensign, Mrs. Catharine Green, Mrs. Frances McKee, Mrs. A. G. Blessing, Mrs. Neoma Vannorsdal, Mrs. Maude Blackmore, Mrs. Harriett Zimmerman, Miss Celia Thomas, Miss Marguerite McKillip, Miss Frances Morrow. Sixteen of the twenty-four organization members are descendants of William Horney going in upon this fine, and from this unusual fact, the chapter was named.

The epoch making occasion was launched by a one o'clock luncheon, beautifully appointed. The thirty guests were seated at small tables, whose attractive centerpieces were crystal baskets of sweet peas and fern. The three courses of particularly delicious viands were gracefully served by Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Glenn H. Brock, Mrs. Elza McKee and Miss Celia Thomas. The covers were marked by dainty place cards, bearing the insignia of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Washington Court House chapter was represented by Mrs. George H. Hitchcock, Regent, and Mrs. J. Howard Jefferson, Registrar.

George Pensyl, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Pensyl, left Friday for Philadelphia to enter the Philadelphia College of Horology and take the finishing course in watch making, engraving and diamond mounting, which he has been studying the past three years in his association with the C. J. Gossard and Co. jewelers. He will re-enter the same store upon his completion of the course. This is the same school in which Mr. Pensyl's uncle, Mr. George Gossard Jr., and Mr. A. Clark Gossard, took this course.

Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. George Gossard entertained most delightfully a farewell dinner for their nephew, bringing the entire family together.

The pretty table was laid with twelve covers and blue candles and greenery tastefully used in decoration. An elaborate course dinner was served, with the utmost congeniality of the family group sauced for the passing.

The Bloomingburg, Woman's Club assembled at the home of Mrs. Sula Haisus, Wednesday, for its annual business session.

The president, Mrs. Pauline Jefferson, called the meeting to order and the responses to roll call were program suggestions for the coming year. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Following the reading of the constitution, a committee was appointed to rewrite it. A card of thanks was read from Mrs. G. W. Holdren. The election of officers resulted as follows—President, Mrs. Forest McCoy, Vice President, Mrs. Flora Kinkaid, Secretary, Mrs. Georgia Rogers, Treasurer, Miss Dora Hays, Executive Committee—Mrs. Ella Kiever, Mrs. Anna Lattimer and Mrs. Zenetta Hains.

After adjournment there was a delightful social hour, the hostess serving delicious refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Maude Howland and Mrs. Pauline Tempfli.

The regular meeting of the Young Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was held Thursday afternoon in the parlors of Grace M. E. church.

Mrs. Henry Link, president, presided, Mrs. Glenn Rodgers, leading the devotionals. The program was given following the business session, Mrs. Troy Junk had the afternoon's study, giving the chapter "Prayer in Strategy of Missions", from the study book. Mrs. Clarence Craig read a leaflet "While They Are Yet Calling" and Mrs. Glenn Rodgers read a leaflet "Did It Just Happen?" Joyce Bishop gave a clever reading "Doin' Up The Dishes". Miss Pearl Minton presented to each of the members a pair of chop sticks sent as favors by Dr. Betow, Medical Missionary in Sienyu, China, who was recently here for a visit.

During the social hour, tempting refreshments were served by the hostesses—Mesdames Jess Peagans, Howard Engle, Willard Chamberlain, Lang Johnson, W. L. Ellison and Miss Ruth Carr.

Mrs. Werter Shoop was a delightfully cordial hostess Thursday, bringing the members of the Thursday bridge-luncheon club together for the first time since before the holidays. The interval in club sessions made the "get together" of Thursday all the more pleasurable.

Mrs. Shoop served a delicious luncheon, using prettily a white and green color scheme. Each of the four tables was centered with a white taper in a crystal stick, its base twined with greenery.

Mrs. Alice Moorman received the pretty favor for scoring high progressions in the interesting game of the afternoon.

Mrs. Frank S. Jackson entertained a supper and picture show party Thursday evening for her young daughter, Judith Ann, honoring her, twelfth birthday.

Covers for a five o'clock supper were laid with the vivacious young hostess for Catherine Hudson, Marie Rowell, Evelyn Nicholson, Katherine Henry, Mary Katherine Doyle, Isabel Chandler, Virginia Wilson.

The pretty table was centered with a beautifully frosted birthday cake, ablaze with red candles, and the viands were particularly pleasing to youthful appetites. The girls had a very jolly hour around the table and later greatly enjoyed the picture show "Peter the Great at the Colonial theater."

The usual meeting of the Margaret Walker Circle was held, Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins, with a splendid attendance of members.

Following the business session, a delightful program was given, including a reading by Helen Louise Jackson, a piano solo by Enid McClure, a chapter from the study book "High Adventure," by Dorothy Williams, and the reading of the third chapter of the book of study "Makers of South America," by Edith Wilson.

There was a social hour afterwards, during which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frey, and Mr. Jay Burnett, Miss Berdina Crisenverry complimented Mrs. Richard E. Vincent, of Washington D. C., and Mrs. Fred Sprenger, of Columbus cousins of Mr. Burnett, with a pleasurable little dinner at Ye Ol' Mill tea room Thursday evening.

The success and pleasure of the fortnightly dances at the K. of P. Castle, under the auspices of the social committee, Mr. Everett Ford, chairman, Mr. John Wilson and Mr. Griffin Wilson, are increasing with each party and are stirring keen anticipation. Sixty-five couples were in attendance at the Thursday night dance, including a number from Leesburg, Jeffersonville, Bloomingburg and other nearby towns.

Gregg's Serenaders played with fine spirit and responded to enthusiastic encores. The evening was in every way delightful.

Mrs. Willard S. Willis and little son, Harris, left Friday afternoon for Philadelphia, Pa., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Alan G. Grant and little son, Alan Jr.

After a visit with Miss Ruth Kelly and grandmother, Mrs. William Sylvester, Mrs. Vernon J. Schwallie and sons, Junior and Jimmie, returned to their home in Cincinnati, Friday.

Miss Elsie Craig spent Thursday visiting her niece, Mrs. William Morgan, in Springfield.

Mrs. N. S. Craig has returned from Philadelphia where she has spent the past three weeks visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. K. Knight, and Dr. Knight.

Mrs. A. C. Rush was called from Dayton to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wilson, by the illness of her mother, Mrs. John H. Michael.

Mrs. Richard E. Vincent, of Washington D. C., and sister, Mrs. Fred Sprenger, who have been visiting their cousin, Mrs. Frank S. Jackson, returned Friday to the home of the latter in Columbus, where Mrs. Vincent will continue her visit.

Mr. James B. Leist was a business visitor in Cincinnati, Thursday and Friday.

Mr. C. K. Farrell and family have returned from a three weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Louisville, Ky., where Mr. Farrell, who is district representative of The Hirsch Brothers Co., attended a meeting of all representatives of the firm.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon

There is no question of annulment of the union of gay color and aristocratic line in French frocks made from the brilliant new prints.

PRINTS, modern in design, impassioned in color, are more important this Spring than ever. They lend their decoration to simple frocks, line dark coats, and take the place of beads and brocades for evening dresses. Many of them are in geometrical patterns of modernistic type, while others are in floral or landscape or faunlike designs. The young girl's frock illustrated came from Paris and is made of printed crepe cut in circular form at the side and with sleeves of plain-colored Georgette. The same designer makes it without sleeves and with cut-away armholes for evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Worrell, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hunt, made up a dinner party in Columbus Thursday night.

Mrs. Ayonelle Timmons went to Akron Friday for a week's visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Sturtevant, and to attend the annual ball of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad held in that city.

Dr. Fred D. Wollard has been confined by illness to his home in Rawlins street this week.

Mr. Othol O. Wade, manager of The Craig Brothers' department store shoe department, left Thursday night for Chicago, to attend the National Convention of Shoe Manufacturers and its attendant style show.

Mrs. Elza McKee, of Springfield, spent Thursday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Watkins, of Jeffersonville, coming over for the organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution chapter.

Reverend Arch H. Nicholson, Mrs. Nicholson and son, Alan, were motoring visitors in Greenfield and Hillsboro, Thursday, on business connected with the Presbytery. They were accompanied from Greenfield to Hillsboro by Reverend John T. Newell.

--AND MORE SNOW TO COME SATURDAY!

With the weather man vowing there will be snow falling Saturday, coming on top of a steady fall of the beautiful since early Friday morning, one of the heaviest snows of the winter is anticipated by local citizens.

The snowfall started with a gentle eastern wind, and later in the day this swung toward the south, then veered back toward the east once more.

It is a well known saying that "snow from the east means a heavy snow" and apparently the present fall is in line with the belief of long standing.

On top of the "snow Saturday" forecast by the weather man, is "rising temperature" indicating that the snow may disappear about as rapidly as it fell.

TWO AUTO DRIVERS WITH OLD TAGS

One of these was from Pennsylvania, and was to be dealt with during Friday.

The other man, cited a day or two ago, was from Cincinnati. He had his bill of sale with him, and was given the alternative of going immediately and obtaining a license or paying a fine. He took advantage of the chance and obtained his license at once, extending thanks for the courtesy shown.

INSTALLMENT X BABS IS JEALOUS

Shayle sat up all night at the open window looking through the darkness to where High Elms lay.

Every moment was a torment. This time last night she had been with him, her little head cuddled into his shoulder; this time last night.

In the morning Banks found him fully dressed lying heavily asleep on the outside of the bed; but when he rang the old-fashioned bell for breakfast Shayle came down looking very much as usual, and made a pretense of eating.

Old Banks lingered about the room, putting in harmless remarks now and then, and only receiving monosyllabic replies, till at last he took definite courage to say the thing which was on his mind.

"Miss Wye-Smith was along the road last night, sir."

Shayle's big figure seemed to stiffen to attention, but he only said very quietly, "Yes, Banks?"

"And she spoke to me, sir," the old man went on. "And she asked me if you were at home, sir."

"Yes, Banks. What did you say?"

"I told her yes, sir."

Silence, and then, "What else, Banks?"

"She said would I tell you, sir, that she would be at home this morning."

Silence, quite unbroken this time, and presently Banks went quietly out of the room.

The morning after the storm Babs woke with the feeling that she was queen of all the world, and put on her prettiest frock.

She sang as she dressed, sang as she went downstairs, where she found her father busy with the village policeman, examining the muddy footmarks on the broken hump of the window.

She listened to the Colonel's voluble accounts of the attempted burglary with a little guilty feeling at her heart. Supposing she and Shayle were to blame for having left the window open?

She broke into her father's indignant words with a conciliating smile.

"Well dear, there's no harm done. The silver is safe."

"Entirely due to me," was his prompt retort. "If I had not been a light sleeper and awakened at the sound of movement down here we might all have been murdered in our beds. Not one of the servants heard a sound! Not one of the servants heard a sound! Not one of them! Disgraceful, I call it! Positively disgraceful. And there are four dogs in the yard, and all sleeping like the dead."

"Rough was awake. He barked all night," Babs said, in swift defense of her favorite.

"Barking at the moon, I dare say," the Colonel snapped, regardless of the fact that there had been no moon.

Babs changed the subject, only to be led back to it again and again, until at last, tired of the eternal argument, she slipped away and went out.

She drew the fresh morning air gratefully into her lungs; she took off her hat and felt the sun warm on her head.

She was happy! Happy! Happy! And at any moment she would see Shayle coming up the drive.

But the morning passed, and the afternoon.

He is busy, she told herself loyally, but she knew Shayle was never busy, and then when Jim came in to tea he told her that he had seen Shayle that morning.

"What was he doing?" The question leaped eagerly to her lips.

Jim grinned. "Leaving over the gate smoking, the first time."

"Oh, then you saw him twice?"

"Yes."

"And what was he doing the second time?"

Jim glanced at his sister out of the corner of his eyes.

"He was walking down the road with Mrs. Elkin," he said.

Babs caught her breath.

"Mrs. Elkin? Oh, has she moved in then?"

"Some of the stuff has come, but the storm last night held up most of it on the road, so she's hardly got any sort of comfort." Jim hesitated and grew red. "It would be decent to ask her to dinner tonight," he said awkwardly.

Babs glanced up.

"To dinner? But I don't know her?" He frowned.

"That's just like a woman," he objected, angrily. "You can't do another woman a good turn until you've been properly introduced or called, or a lot of rot like that. She's jolly nice, too, you'd like her."

"How did Shayle get to know her?" Babs asked. She hated herself for the jealous thrill that had touched her heart when she heard that they had been walking together, for after all—"he belongs to me," she told herself fiercely.

"Never knew he did know her," Jim said candidly. "But when I asked her she said that she'd known him for ten years."

"Oh!" Longer than she had known him!—a lifetime longer.

Jim rose and made for the door. "You'll go down to Ivy Cottage, then?" he said, with elaborate carelessness.

Babs said "Yes." It would give her an excuse to pass The Chantry, at any rate, and she might see Shayle.

But she only met old Banks, who told her that Shayle had been at home all day. All day! And he had not come near her.

She stifled her hurt loyally. There was some good reason for it, of course. Last night she had been unhappy about him, and after all, he had written to her. Her heart leaped! Perhaps tonight he would come again as he had done then.

She went on to Ivy Cottage, but Mrs. Elkin had been carried off to dine by another kindly Samaritan, and Babs went back home alone. The evening dragged. The Colonel pottered about his library making things doubly secure for the night, and cleaning up old service revolver.

"If they come tonight they'll have a welcome they don't expect," he threatened.

Babs laughed.

"Dear, burglars surely never come two nights running!" she chaffed him. But after she had gone to bed she lay awake with a fast-beating heart listening; not for the thieves who had cast covetous eyes on her father's silver, but for the man who had stolen her heart away.

Tomorrow—"Lena's Reference."

NEW CINCINNATI SUBWAY SYSTEM ALL READY FOR LAYING OF TRACKS

Boulevard To Parallel It On Surface

(By Associated Press.)
Cincinnati, O., Jan. 8.—The burden of the work on Cincinnati's new $5,000,000 subway and transit system, which will assure rapid transportation service between the city and outlying suburbs has passed and with in a few weeks legislation will proceed to construct a $4,500,000 boulevard on the subway's surface.

The entire transit loop extends a little more than eleven miles in length. The subway alone, which occupies the bed of the old Miami and Erie Canal is approximately six miles long. Several years of work have completed its course. Beginning at Sycamore Street in the downtown section the subway cut across the city to the northwest, ending at Brighton. At Brighton the transit line emerges from the subway to the surface, makes a loop and runs over to a northwestern point of Greater Cincinnati where it ends at a temporary terminal.

The system is ready for the laying of track to a point extending eleven miles to Norwood and work can be started in the spring. The installation of the track, however, depends upon the outcome of negotiations between the transit commission and local railway and interurban companies.

The Cincinnati Street Railway Company is contending for the right to operate the transit system. When the subway rights are leased the laying of the track will follow.

Along the six mile surface of the subway rights are leased the laying of the track will follow.

Along the six mile surface of the subway will be constructed a boulevard to be known as Central Parkway. This will be devoted exclusively to motor traffic. Cincinnati voted a bond issue of $3,300,000 for the boulevard. The remainder of the $4,500,000 outlay will be met by the county and state.

There is pending before the transit commission a proposal to build another subway down Walnut street, connecting with the present subway system and designed to relieve the business section of the heavy traffic that will be fed into the new transit tube from surface lines and buses.

The commission is considering a referendum for the purpose of obtaining a bond issue to build the linking transit unit. The cost is estimated at $1,500,000.

OHIO HERDS FAIL TO MEET STATE'S BUTTER DEMANDS

OHIOANS CONSUMED 115,000,000
POUNDS IN 1925 AND SHIPPED
15,000,000 TO EASTERN
MARKETS

(Special to The Herald.)

Columbus, O., Jan. 8.—Cows in other states were pressed into service last year to help Ohio produce enough butter for its own use and to meet the demand from eastern states for the Ohio product.

A preliminary report issued by the Ohio Dairy Products Association shows that Ohio last year manufactured 84,000,000 pounds of creamery butter, 15,000,000 pounds of farm butter and brought in from western states 31,000,000 pounds. Approximately 15,000,000 pounds were shipped to eastern markets.

Of the 84,000,000 pounds of creamery butter, 68,000,000 were produced from cream from Ohio cows and 16,000,000 pounds from the cream of cows in other states. Ohio cows produced 82,000,000 pounds of creamery and farm butter, but it required 115,000,000 pounds to supply the demand of the Ohio households, the consumption of butter in Ohio last year being between 5 and 6 per cent greater than it was in 1924.

It is estimated that approximately 75 percent of the cream used for the manufacture of creamery butter in Ohio is produced west of a line drawn from Sandusky to Columbus and Portsmouth. A large amount of this cream, however, is shipped to Cleveland and Akron for churning purposes. In an effort to make Ohio creamery butter the best produced in the United States, the Ohio Dairy Products Association, in co-operation with the Dairy Division of Ohio State University, and the State Departments of Health and Agriculture started a campaign for cream improvement, which has proved eminently successful, in that it has brought about a steady and increased supply of a higher grade of cream for butter-making.

Directors of the Ohio Dairy Products Association are J. N. Gibson, Dayton; C. T. Cawse, Columbus; Everett Antrim, Columbus; George A. Summer, Akron; H. C. Berry, Toledo; John Schubach, Canton; E. H. Campbell, Salon; S. M. Ross, Columbus; and W. B. Johnson, Westerville.

WINTER COLDS ARE DANGEROUS
The serious diseases that develop from simple coughs or colds make them dangerous and they should not be neglected. There is no better remedy for quick relief from coughs and colds than Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. "My grandchild could get no relief whatever from a very bad croupy cough, until I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Peter Landis, Meyersdale, Pa. Keep a bottle on hand for any emergency. ## FAMOUS VIOLINIST AND HARPISIT COMING

The Cecilian Concert Course just announced, includes in addition to the well known and gifted trio of Zimmer Harpists and Welsh baritone, who appear here, January 21, the famous violinist, Francis MacMillan who, during the summer of 1924, spent several weeks at the Sturgeon cottage at Rock Bridge, resting and recuperating from a long concert tour.

Mr. MacMillan asked at that time that he not be disturbed while resting, and his wishes were observed by citizens in general. In appreciation of the deference of the local citizens, Mr. MacMillan consented to give a concert here, and will appear under the auspices of the Cecilian Music Club, March 26. He is among the foremost violinists of the world.

The Zimmer Harp Trio, composed of three brilliant women harpists, will be assisted by Tom Williams, internationally known Welsh baritone.

WHY BATTLE WAGED ON CATTLE PLAGUE

A bulletin reaching a prominent farmer of this city, indicates to some extent why the "hoof and mouth" disease is fought so hard in this country when it makes its appearance—why all infected cattle are ordered killed at once and quarantine established to prevent the spread.

The bulletin states that in England alone 183 cases occurred within a short period this winter, while in France, Holland and some of the other European countries the number reached into the thousands.

Europe has been infested with the disease for a great many years, and annually the disease causes tremendous losses.

Only one instance of the presence of the disease in this county was ever reported, and that was near Jasper some 12 years ago. At that time the herd was destroyed and the owner paid for the cattle, while a rigid quarantine was established in Fayette county, and every precaution taken to prevent spread. No other cases resulted.

Scores carried away subscription blanks with promise to fill in the amount they will give toward the project.

A 47 acre tract in the eastern part of the city is to be purchased for the factory site.
